PRESS RELEASE

The University of Delhi has set up an IPR Cell and Patent Fund under the Chairmanship of Prof. Madan Mohan, Dean, Research. The Cell consists of members drawn from different disciplines and faculties of the University. The IPR Cell and Patent Fund may also take practicing lawyers and law firms dealing with IPR issues on board. The aim of the Cell is to facilitate the researchers, inventors and creators of work to manage their IPRs through this legal machinery and also to manage its commercial aspects. Commercial returns to the University from this will be ploughed back to the Patent Fund.

The Patent Fund has been created initially with an amount of Rs. 20 lakhs for helping the creators of IP in filing applications and also for giving financial assistance to the academia for paying for publication charges, if required, for publication of research papers.
