Special instruction

Ten per cent will be added to the aggregate of best four subjects for students who have offered higher/elective/alternative, etc English (ie. other than a compulsory English paper, such as for example in the CBSE, 'core' or 'functional' English). A student needs to have obtained at least 60 pc marks in the higher/elective/alternative, etc English subject to be eligible for the 10 pc weightage. To be eligible for the higher weightage, however, it is NOT necessary for the applicant to include the higher/elective/alternative, etc English subject in the best four subjects on the basis of which admission is being sought.

It may be noted that should a candidate have offered only ONE English Language / Literature paper in her/his qualifying 12th board examination, she/he shall not be entitled to claim the aforementioned weightage, even if she/he may be offered
