IN-HOUSE SKILL DEVELOPMENT CERTIFICATE COURSES SHORT TERM JOB-ORIENTED SUMMER COURSES

The present day world is characterized by globalization, and cut-throat competition. To deal with these challenges and create an identity for themselves in the world individuals must be equipped with certain crucial skills. In order to develop such skills in the students, the College is organizing three skill development courses during the summer vacations. The courses are in the disciplines of Psychology, Chemistry and History. Each of these courses will be of three weeks duration. The courses are as follows:

1. “Self-enhancement skill”: Psychology department

This course aims at self enhancement of the participants. To this end, the course incorporates in-house training in various skills such as stress management skills, self-understanding, communication skills, emotional resilience, emotional intelligence, positive thinking, self-efficacy, leadership etc. These skills will equip the students to find good employment opportunities and excel in their careers as well as help them in enhancing their personality. By training the participants in these skills, the course aims to develop positive and skillful individuals who not only have a better understanding of themselves but also contribute to the betterment of the nation.

2. “Skill development in applied chemistry and instrumentation”: Chemistry department

This course aims to train undergraduates for bright future prospects in industrial placements as well as academics. Students from all science streams will gain experience in handling instruments and analyzing products of common interest. The course modules will focus on learning by hands on instrumentation, analytical skills interfacing with the theoretical concepts, development of technical know how’s related to spectrophotometers and pH meters, and data analysis of products of importance in pharmaceuticals, beverages and cosmetics.

3. “Appreciation of Popular Culture”: History department

This course is designed to equip students to develop a critical understanding of performing arts and visual expressions. The students would be given in-house training of Madhubani painting, kathavaachan, calligraphy and calendar art. Further, popular culture will be contextualized in a globalized world to teach ways to integrate and showcase folk culture on an international platform. The course aims to bring together an empirical understanding of popular culture with hands-on experience, field trips and interaction with academicians and artistes. Students interested in History, Art, Museology, Photography, Fashion, and Media can enhance their skills through this course.
