It will also help to develop international friendships and cooperation among students from all over the world and focuses on excellent 17-21 years old students.

The WSCSI will be held in conjunction with the Nobel Conference for Science & Technology, an international gathering to be held in Israel at the same time, in which the twenty Nobel Laureates, alongside with leaders of government, industry and academy will speak about current developments and future directions for the benefit of mankind.

Both the WSCSI and the Nobel Conference are unprecedented events in regard to the number of Nobel Laureates participating. As such, the WSCSI will offer the young participants a unique opportunity for inspiration and "once in a life time experience".
