Preamble

The objective of any programme at Higher Education Institute is to prepare their students for the society at large. The University of Delhi envisions all its programmes in the best interest of their students and in this endeavour it offers a new vision to all its Under-Graduate courses. It imbibes a Learning Outcome-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for all its Under Graduate programmes.

The LOCF approach is envisioned to provide a focused, outcome-based syllabus at the undergraduate level with an agenda to structure the teaching-learning experiences in a more student-centric manner. The LOCF approach has been adopted to strengthen students' experiences as they engage themselves in the programme of their choice. The Under Graduate Programmes will prepare the students for both, academia and employability.

Each programme vividly elaborates its nature and promises the outcomes that are to be accomplished by studying the courses. The programmes also state the attributes that it offers to inculcate at the graduation level. The graduate attributes encompass values related to well-being, emotional stability, critical thinking, social justice and also skills for employability. In short, each programme prepares students for sustainability and life-long learning.

The new curriculum of B.A. (Hons) Urdu offer three major components of Urdu Language and Literature and Composite culture which include the Ganga Jamuna Tehzeeb, the vital portion of our secular heritage. With these, a student not only becomes a responsible civilian but also well equipped to meet the growing demand of this language in south Asian studies which is becoming a fast growing discipline in many major universities at the world level. For imparting language skills especially, there are units for imparting education in functional language through language teaching modes, like practical classes in language labs and holding spoken language symposiums and interpretation sessions. Urdu Literature in the Urdu language, has a history that is inextricably tied to the development of Urdu, the register of the Hindustani language written in the Perso-Arabi script. While it tends to be dominated by poetry, especially the verse forms of the ghazal and nazm, it has expanded into other styles of writing, including that of the short story, or afsana.

Urdu developed in the Delhi region. Urdu literature originated some time around the 14th century in present-day North India among the sophisticated gentry of the courts. The continuing traditions of Islam and patronizations of foreign culture centuries earlier by Muslim rulers, usually of Turke or Afghan descent, marked their influence on the Urdu language given that both cultural heritages were strongly present throughout Urdu territory. The Urdu language, with a vocabulary almost evanly split between Sanskrit-derived Prakrit and Arabo-Persian words, was a reflection of this relatural amalgamation.

Amir Khusro exercised great influence on the initial growth of not only Urdu literature, but he language itself. He is credited with the systematization of northern Indian classical music, including Hindustani music, and he wrote works both in Persian and Hindavi. Muhammed Quli Qutub Shah had the distinction of being the first Saheb-e-dewan Urdu poet and is credited with introducing a new sensibility into prevailing genres of Urdu poetry. It is said that the Urdu language acquired the status of a literary language due to his contributions.

- 1. Learners are able to become more accurate and efficient when using a language.
- 2. Improves the fluency in the language.
- 3. Able to speak, read and write the language more efficiently.

Course Learning Outcomes

Grammar lays the ground work for effective communication. It makes written content more readable and interesting. Grammar can help learners develop the habit of thinking logically and clearly. After studying grammar, learners are able to become more accurate when using a language. Without good grammar, clear communication is impossible. It improves the development of fluency. As a result, students will be able to speak, read and write the language more correctly. A student with poor grammar skill can form a negative impression on others. First impression can be last, and may hide the true judgement of character. Writing and speaking correctly gives students the appearance of credibility, if students are attempting to build a reputation as an expert in their institution, correct use of grammar is extremely important. Thus, this course is essential for fifth and sixth semester year students of Urdu Hons.
